

Profile: Entertainment industry print production graphic artist with over a decade of experience. Expert knowledge of Adobe Creative Suite and a variety of high-end printing processes, start to finish. Creation and roll-outs of high profile ads from newspapers to billboards, and outputting of various printed mediums including garments, signage, tradeshow graphics and vehicle wraps.

Computer Skills: Both Macintosh and Windows environments daily.
Adobe Beta Tester specializing in: Photoshop, InDesign, Illustrator, Acrobat and many others;
Microsoft Office; Web FTP uploads & downloading; quality control; archival.

Special Skills: Wide format printing; CNC router and laser output; screen printing; flatbed printing; vinyl cutting & heat press application; concept fabrication; jigs; assembly line; collators; bindery; folders; hydraulic cutters; packing; palletizing; warehousing; shipping & receiving; sewing; wood crafting; sculpting; painting.

Career Highlights: Tiger: My main task was to build a profitable high-end graphics department along with setting up and maintaining the warehouse and all inventory within. Once that was set into motion I was responsible for all aspects of graphic production from RIP to finished product. As the business grew and the product was tailored to different client needs there was a need for custom cases and components. I devised several jigs and figured out an assembly line process for fabricating our products safely and efficiently.

DZN: My first task was to set up and automate a studio-wide DLT archiving system and to be a point person between the IT, design, and production departments for server know-how and management. I've worked in every facet of the print production from creating and maintaining templates, building out basic designs through multiple packages and checking files for continuity before going to the printer. During my tenure at DZN I grew to a point where I migrated from the home video group to the Paramount Theatrical group where I continued to grow towards a production management position.
